

Comment for Field trip to Design Museum

I am very happy that I have a chance to know about this exhibition. Especially when I see this exhibition through other people's third perspective, it feels very different.

And I have the same point of view as this classmate, and I also hope that in future exhibitions, museums can allow people to express their ideas and show them to their heart's content.

The most interesting thing about Yayoi Kusama's work is that she is not the only author in this exhibition. Every tourist who visits is the author of this work. It's very interesting. I am looking forward to more and more exhibitions.
